Charges.

Three men, one charged with highway robbery and two with operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner, were held for grand jury action by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today.

Says Charges are "Ridiculous" William Mullen, Philadelphia peddler, arrested by police Saturday morning, suspect in holdups at the Standard Oil company's gasoline station on December 8 and January 2, was held in $2,500 bond on each of two counts charging highway robbery. The affidavits upon which the charges were based were signed by Norman Anthony 20, attendant, who was in charge of the station at the time of the robberies.

Mullen termed the charges "ridiculous." He told police that he came to East Liverpool about 10 days ago, but Patrolman Elwyn Shenkel testified that he had seen Mullen in town on December 8, the date of the first robbery, while Patrolman Chester Smith said he had seen him here on January 2, the date of the second robbery. Anthony, who was also on the stand, testified that he saw the man who twice entered the filling station, Attorney B. H. Cochran represented Mullen, while Solicitor Frank Hoover prosecuted the case.

Prisoners Go to Lisbon. Herman Riesmeyer and Ralph Wooley, Jr., both of Jethi, were held under $1,000 bond on charges of operating the automobile of John T. Wood, Jr., without the consent of the owner. They were arrested in their homes Monday morning after they are alleged by police to have abandoned the car near Lincoln avenue and West Eighth street. Riesmeyer is said to have confessed to Police Captain Conley that Wooley took the machine and, by a pre-arranged plan, met him in West Ninth street. They drove to Pittsburgh Saturday night where they spent Sunday with Riesmeyer's relatives, he said, returning to East Liverpool early Monday morning.

One of the three was able to furnish bond. They will be taken to Lisbon probably this afternoon.

Today

William H. Aged 70.

Happy Big Steel.

How Far You Candle.

A City On A Rock.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

IN six days William Hohenzollern, once emperor, will be 70. He looks well, but disillusioned, wears a full beard, mustaches no longer waxed or turned up at the point.

HE will celebrate by publishing a book called "My Ancestors." It could be interesting, going back to the early money-lending family of East Prussia that got its name from high interest rates. But it's hard to write impartially about your own people.

WILLIAM decided that some things were wrong in the Hohenzollern family and blames its troubles, passion, sudden rages, bad temper, etc., on a woman, Maria Pavlowa, Russian by blood, Hohenzollern by accident of marriage. That reminds you of Adam blaming Eve.

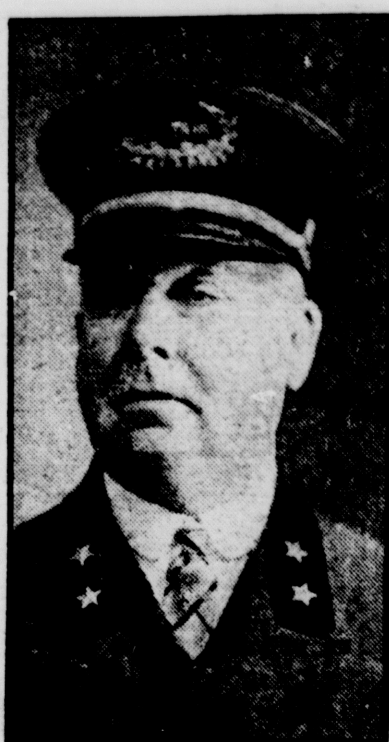

OLYMPIA, dancing naked with snakes wrapped around her body, too intimate by far with an Egyptian magician, conspiring to murder Philip's second wife and her baby, was, nevertheless, mother of Alexander the Great.

IT takes energy to produce energy. Sometimes ladies that seem wild simply lack an adequate outlet for superior powers.

IT'S too bad we know so little about violent women of the past. Dido, and Bertha of the big fish, Charlemagne's mother, the marvelous Hypatia, and Tomvris, the African queen that cut off the head of Cyrus and dipped it in a goatskin filled with human blood. Men have written too much about themselves, not enough about women.

KUMLER BILL

Provides Half-year Expenses for State Government.

$22,790,526 TOTAL

Senate Committee Recommends Highway,
Crossing Measure.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22.—The Kumler bill appropriating $22,790,526.85 for state governmental expenses during the first half of this year became effective as law shortly before noon today when Governor Myers Y. Cooper attached his approving signature.

The measure, which passed the senate and house last week, was signed by Lieut. Gov. John T. Brown and Speaker O. C. Gray last night. The senate finance committee this forenoon recommended passage of the Kumler emergency bill providing for the appropriation of $6,000,000 for constructing and reconstructing market and intercounty highways and abolishing railway grade crossings during the first half of the year.

Kill Anti License Fee Slash. The senate highways and automobile committee today killed the bill, by Senator George H. Bender, Cleveland, which sought to reduce the state automobile license fees for pleasure cars to $1 and for trucks to $5.

In signing the big appropriation measure, the governor used a fountain pen presented to him by a nephew, Myers Cooper Kinney, 15, son of Attorney Frank Kinney, Cincinnati. This was the first bill signed by Ohio's new governor.

Expect McCullough's Confirmation. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—The Ohio senate this afternoon is expected to confirm Governor Myers Y. Cooper's appointment of former congressman Roscoe C. McCullough, Canton, Republican, as a member of the state utilities commission. McCullough's name was sent to the senate by the governor last night.

If the appointment is confirmed, McCullough will succeed Frank Mauler, Chillicothe, Republican, for the term ending in February, 1933. Mauler's term expired in February, 1927, but he continued in office because of the failure of the senate two years ago to confirm former Governor V. Donahy's appointment of a successor.

Senate leaders predicted that McCullough's appointment will be confirmed without opposition.

Van Fossan's Bill. Among the bills introduced today were:

By Representative W. H. Van Fossan, Lisbon, amending the Ohio fish license law so as to provide for reciprocity with other states having similar laws. It decrees that the provision of the Ohio law permitting a person to fish without a license shall not apply to a non-resident of Ohio unless the law of the state where such non-resident lives grants to non-residents that of state the same right to fish without a license as is granted to non-residents by the Ohio laws.

PRESIDENT SEES
FEDERAL SURPLUS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Coolidge hopes to leave office on March 4 with the treasury in such shape that the present fiscal year will end with a surplus instead of the threatened deficit, it was said at the White House today.

Present figures show a deficit of approximately $375,000,000 but it is expected this will be offset by the March and June income tax payments.

SIGNS POINT TO ADJUSTMENT OF PROBLEM OF
REPARATIONS

S. Parker Gilbert Optimistic as He En-
trains.

OFF FOR PARIS

Agent General Gets Views of Washington Officialdom.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—All signs point to an adjustment of the German reparations problem which will restore Europe to economic equilibrium.

This opinion was expressed today by S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, just before he left for New York to sail for Paris Friday.

For several weeks Gilbert has been in conference with President Coolidge, President-elect Hoover, Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of Treasury Mellon relative to the coming reparations conference.

Silent on Situation. Gilbert declined to discuss the situation, further than to declare that the committee of experts selected from the various countries is of the highest obtainable ability, and thoroughly familiar with the subject, and that they have a definite objective, and that undoubtedly their job will be well done.

Five or six of the experts sat on the committee which wrote the Dawes plan. The new committee will carry to completion the objectives of the Dawes plan, writing in sections where gaps were left, make a final determination of the amount Germany must pay, and provide for the methods of payment.

Gilbert will stop for a time in Paris but whether he will remain there during the reparations conferences will depend upon the attitude of the committee. In all probability Gilbert will be one of the important witnesses.

Will Stay on Job. The agent general said he was giving no consideration to resigning his post. He will remain until his work is completed. Gilbert admitted the future is somewhat uncertain. The committee of experts may terminate the work of the agent general, or that post may be continued to carry out the agreement almost certainly reached.

Friends of Gilbert declared that should a post similar to the one now occupied be provided for it is possible that he will be tendered the position.

Gilbert is understood to have reported to this government that economic conditions in Germany are fundamentally sound and that the country is in a position to meet the settlement terms. The German press and government naturally is taking the attitude that a settlement at this time is undesirable because of economic conditions, or at least that Germany is not pressing for a settlement. Washington officials believe that a definite fixation of reparations would be as beneficial to Germany as the allied countries.

COUNCIL VOTES TO TABLE MOVE
FOR BEECHWOOD
IMPROVEMENT

Frost, Hughes and Green Support
Resolution.

4 TO 3 IS COUNT

Two Other Zones Also Seek Sanitary Systems.

Proposed extension of the sanitary sewer to the Beechwood, Grandview and Northside sections, sponsored by Councilman A. C. Frost, received a setback last night when the law-makers, by a vote of 4 to 3, tabled a resolution authorizing the city engineer to prepare plans for the improvement.

Estimate Cost at $15,000. Councilmen Altman, Ferguson, Fleming and Lind opposed the proposed resolution while Members Frost, Hughes and Green supported it. There was no discussion.

Frost urged extension of the sanitary sewer system to the Beechwood and Grandview sections and sections of the Northside district which cannot be connected with the main trunk line sewer which runs down Avondale street. He also asked a sanitary sewer for the Maplewood and Park boulevard, but was advised by the city engineer that a trunk line must be constructed in Dresden avenue to drain this section.

City Engineer Clapsaddle has been at work for several weeks on plans for the Beechwood sewer, and the resolution presented last night was the first step in the legislation. The cost of constructing the trunk line from Pennsylvania avenue up Leak Hollow to Beechwood, where it will branch off in several directions, has been estimated at $15,000.

Other Sewer Extensions Approved. Residents of Pleasant Heights and Globe street appeared before council, requesting sanitary sewer facilities in those districts. The committee was advised that the improvement is planned for next summer.

Legislation for three other sewer extensions were approved on three readings under suspension of the rules. An ordinance called for a sewer in sections of Peake, Jackson and Ogden streets, recently recommended by the board of health. One resolution provides for the construction of a deep sanitary sewer from the city lot (Continued on page 8, column 1)

NIGHT NURSE SOON ENDED SEVERE COLD

Almost Instant Relief Came When Doctor Advised Method Used In Homes of Many Here

Realizing the needless misery and risk so often caused by neglected colds, doctors are now advising a quick method that gives almost instant relief—then ends the cold completely in a few hours. And now Mrs. Edith Healy, hospital nurse, like numbers of people here, realize how needless it is to take chances on a cold when relief can be had so quickly and pleasantly.

Long hours of duty as a night nurse—frequent trips from warm sick rooms into chilly halls—caused Mrs. Healy to catch a severe cold. It started in her head but she made the mistake of neglecting it until congestion started spreading rapidly. Then she consulted one of the hospital physicians who advised Ayer's Pectoral—a hospital certified medication of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients now used in leading clinics to help reduce fever, clear up congestion and drive out the cold.

Just a pleasant swallow brought almost instant relief. She felt its comforting, soothing warmth from her nose passages deep down into her chest. By night her fever was reduced from 100° to normal and congestion in her head was rapidly clearing up. She was able to return to duty that night, the doctor reports, and in a day or so all traces of the cold were gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by all druggists.

Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourished — you lose weight.

Pape's Diapiesin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.

Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapiesin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences. Adv.

Big Landing Lights For Night Flying Latest Safety Aid

CHICAGO.—Air field landing lights of 3,000,000 candle power designed to flood a broad field with a strong beam free from glare is one of the latest safety aids to flying, reports the American Air Transport association.

Direct light rays have been practically eliminated without reduction in illuminating power. The new device concentrates the light, thrown out across the field, to within four feet of the ground. The landing aviator is not confused by any upward glare before the wheels of his machine touch earth.

Tells Dyspeptics What To Eat

Strict diets are often unnecessary in stomach trouble. While some foods do produce excessive acidity and many stomachs do generate "too much acid" causing gas, sourness, bloating and after-eating pains, the trouble may be safely and quickly corrected by the use of a good alkaline. Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets—is ideal for this purpose. Just a little after meals neutralizes all the excess acid, prevents souring, breaks up gas and ends indigestion. Favorite foods no longer upset stomach and digestion is easy and painless. It will do all this for you or money back. Mathews Medicine Store and druggists everywhere sell Bisurated Magnesia with this guarantee.—Adv.

PAL IN SOLITARY

Edward Montgomery Found Hiding in Freight Car.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—One convict was being held in solitary confinement at the Ohio state penitentiary here today and another was the object of a state-wide police hunt following a successful break for liberty late yesterday afternoon as the men were working in the prison stone quarry, near here.

Edward Montgomery, 24, and Ernest Finisee, 40, made the dash for freedom just as the day guards were being relieved and the night guards being placed. They succeeded in getting through the quarry gate.

An alarm was spread and Montgomery was captured in a freight car shortly afterwards. Finisee eluded officers, however, and is still at liberty. He is believed to have fled towards Springfield or Dayton.

Montgomery was placed in solitary confinement. He is from Summit county and was sentenced to the penal institution for a term of from three to five years on a burglary charge. Finisee is from Hamilton county and was serving an eight-to-twenty-year term for manslaughter.

"We know our Luckies That's how we stay slender"

EVERY woman who fears overweight finds keen interest in new-day and common-sense ways to keep a slender, fashionable figure. Overweight must be avoided. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets."

Toasting does it. Toasting develops and improves the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. Lucky Strike satisfies the longing for things that make you fat, without interfering with a normal appetite for healthful foods. That's why Luckies are good to smoke. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the healthy cigarette for you to smoke.

Many men who carefully watch their health discovered this years ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not slow up their physical vigor—prominent athletes have gone on record that this is so. They know that 20,679 physicians have stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

Cleaning Up Gambling

In visits made to five towns and several rural zones over the week-end, Sheriff J. W. Barlow has warned that any attempt to operate gambling devices or places where games of chance are permitted will meet with prompt action on his part.

Slot machines and punch boards are banned in the territory over which the new county official has jurisdiction. And he drives home his determination to enforce the order by confiscating six "money machines" in Unity township, while he also seized candy cards and other chance schemes in other sections.

Police officials should, and probably will, co-operate with the sheriff in his campaign. Sheriff Barlow was assisted by Chief of Police John H. Faltz in Wellsville, where one man was arrested and fined $100 and costs by Acting Mayor Baker after raiders found gambling paraphernalia in a room in Main street.

Slot machine and punch board agents have no more right to operate gambling equipment than owners of public gaming places. And law enforcement officers will have the wholehearted support of the law-abiding people of the county in their efforts to stamp out the evil.

Ford Visions Future

The Golden Age of long ago, when Saturn reigned and peace, happiness and contentment were present on earth in unalloyed forms, is destined to renaissance if one listens to that archangel of progress, Henry Ford.

Outlining his idea of future developments in "My Philosophy of Industry," the noted automobile manufacturer charts a course of amazing changes in the business of living. Machinery in an ever-increasing manner will be used to remove the drudgery from work. Large corporations will be formed to take over the operation of many undertakings now conducted as private enterprises.

Most revolutionary of all this sort of development will be the change in the agricultural situation. The customary old farm will disappear. In its stead large concerns will be organized to perform the separate tasks of the individual farmer. Plowing, planting, cultivating, and harvesting will be accomplished in wholesale fashion. Ford is looking far in advance. President-elect Hoover, peering into the nearer future pictured his Saturnian age as one when there would be work for everybody. The Detroit motor producer foresees the gradual elimination of work. If such a state be attained, the race of mankind will have to acquire many new accomplishments to make an honest use of their time.

But in all this portrayal of advancement Ford includes one item, which, though he considers it a progressive step toward the ultimate perfection, by many will be viewed with regret for the day when it arrives and satisfaction that they will not be on hand to undergo it. This is the discontinuance of home-cooked food and the substitution of edibles cooked on a large scale basis. Ford has visioned the elimination of the family kitchen, replacing its output with foodstuffs delivered steaming hot at the back door at meal time at a minimum cost. Such a plan, forward though it may be in the matter of reducing the duties of the housewives, looks decidedly unprogressive as regards the development of the fine art of cooking. And that is a form of higher culture that brings much enjoyment into life.

Road of Learning Longer

Yale university announces a four-year law course, and one realizes that the road of learning grows longer and longer. Into most fields of activity contemporary life tends to introduce an ever-increasing element of speed, but in the educational realm the opposite is true.

There was a time, and that not long ago, when the rudiments of education and a working knowledge of some of its higher aspects could be acquired in a period that seems surprisingly short in these days of extensive scholastic preparation. Even the learned professions of medicine and law were by no means the hard taskmasters they have now become. To an elementary course of study it was formerly necessary to add only a brief training of a year or two, and one became a doctor or lawyer.

But that was before a considerable portion of the youth of the land had professional ambitions. The crowding and competition that now exists in the fields requiring special training was then comparatively negligible. Professors could not then make the same demands that are possible now and still have aspirants anxious to meet them. Today successive lengthenings of the period of instruction preparatory to a professional degree may eliminate some small part of those aiming for such careers, but to many it acts merely as added incentive toward gaining a more complete grasp of the chosen subject.

This increase in the training period for a profession should not lead necessarily to the opinion that students of former times were not adequately prepared. It should be recalled that the body of learning and the material related to these subjects has been greatly increased within recent years. This is particularly true in the field of medicine. The road of learning is certainly getting longer and longer, and one hopes the goal attained is equally more worth while.

Scotch Thrift

Wiscrackers have had their periodic run of stories on the thriftiness of the Scots. There is no desire to pass judgment upon the merit of the opinion which gives the natives of Scotland first place as dollar stretchers. It would seem, however, that the dollar, or whatever they use over there for money, is not wholly uppermost in the minds of the Highlanders.

On the contrary there is evidence that the Scot loves his highlands and their beauty quite as much as he does his pocketbook. At least there is plenty of opposition to the project of using the water of some 400 square miles in the south of Scotland for the development of about 100,000 horsepower. When one considers the value of such a development in the promotion of industry and prosperity, which the Scotch will undoubtedly turn down, he must come to a new conception of their idea of relative values.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.—One of the most extraordinary testimonies to come out of the York witchcraft case in the opinion of most people was the constant reference to men, such as Blymyer, Rehmyer, and Lenhart as witches. For some centuries past people have always thought of witches as women and they usually are pictured as horrid hags. Such pictures we saw in our childhood story books. The male sorcerer was a wizard or a warlock.

That the York witchcraft springs directly from very early sources rather than from our own Salem witches or those of modern Europe is indicated because one to two thousand years ago the same term was used in England, Scotland, the Scandinavian countries, and Germany with no distinction of gender. The York witches have a longer direct genealogical line than our Salem witches had.

Of course, to this day, species of witchcraft are practiced in Scotland and in the islands nearby. Many old women have what is called second sight. They foretell things with uncanny accuracy and often are struck with a sudden realization which amounts to a conviction that something has happened to a certain person, death or some disaster, at the ends of the earth. Almost infallibly this type of witchcraft, represented by mental telepathy or something akin to it, proves absolutely true.

In England the Druids were gifted with supernatural powers, according to all legends concerning them. They, of course, were pagans. And the most famous wizard known to English-speaking people is Merlin. Then there is Wayland the Smith who, with the aid of dwarfs, according to legend, forged swords which were invincible in the hands of the champions of those days such, for example, as the knights of King Arthur. Merlin had one of Wayland's swords.

Probably the second most famous wizard of the British Isles was Michael Scott who lived at Melrose Abbey and is regarded with a certain amount of veneration to this day. The people of Scotland have always set great store by witches and warlocks. Burns' Tam o' Shanter and other poems tell how the people of his day dared not stay out after dark alone.

As time has passed, witchcraft has come to be more and more regarded as the peculiar talent of women and so it is the more surprising to find the men of York not only practicing the black arts but being called by the name of witches, instead of wizards, warlocks, or magicians.

To be sure female witches have always outnumbered the wizards. Horace describes a witches' sabbath very entertainingly and, in Greece, the women of Thessaly were especially famed.

A large part of witchcraft working evil is attributed to the familiar, as it was called; conceived to be actually some animal into which a witch or magician had projected his personality and go about unsuspected, making mischief. The story of Gyges' Ring, to wear which made one invisible, comes from the earliest times. The familiar has been a recognized trapping since witchcraft has been practiced. There was the Witch of Endor of whom Saul, seeking to raise up Samuel, said: "She hath a familiar spirit." Socrates referred to his daemon which guided him.

Millions of people daily find some use for the medicinal preparation called witch-hazel. Not so very long ago people employed witches to locate underground sources of water so that there they might advantageously dig wells. The witches used what many people use to this day—divining rods. The medicinal preparation referred to is made largely of the bark of the hazel bush which the witches employed in finding water, so, therefore, it is called witch-hazel.

Many people are so afraid of witch-enemies that they keep their real names secret. They have separate names known to the public. In some cases parents give the secret names which they did not disclose to the child until maturity when he understood the necessity for keeping the secret. The reason is that it is feared that if an enemy knew the real name he could conjure with it, possibly to do the person harm.

And the old witch-man, Rehmyer, fought until death to prevent another from getting a lock of his hair for precisely the same reason; that he might not conjure with it.

Questions And Answers

Q. What was the last play in which Maudie Adams appeared on the stage? E. H. R.
A. It was A Kiss For Cinderella.

Q. What proportion of the people listed in Who's Who in America were born in the United States? H. A.
A. Of the persons included in the volume, 89.77 per cent are of native birth.

Q. Please give some information about Georgia Tech. H. B.
A. Georgia School of Technology at Atlanta, Ga., is a college for men owned and supported by the State of Georgia. It was founded in 1888 as the Technical College of Georgia. Cooperative courses enable many students to earn a large part of living expenses.

Q. What is ski wax made of? W. W. C.
A. It is usually a mixture of wax and tar. The friction caused by the hard rubbing spreads the mixture evenly and its enters into the grain of the wood.

Q. Is it true that the Pyramids could not be duplicated today? J. M. L.
A. We are informed that it would be possible to duplicate the construction of the Pyramids today but that the cost would be practically prohibitive. The construction of any of the skyscrapers has afforded engineers as great problems to solve as would the building of Pyramids.

Q. Is the Flatleyjarbok in the United States? S. N.
A. This collection of sagas is in the Royal Library at Copenhagen. It is the work of two Icelandic priests (1380-95) and is one of the chief sources for the Norse discovery of America.

Q. Can a person compelled to wear glasses get an aviation transport license? F. U.
A. New licenses for aviation transport are not granted to those compelled to wear glasses. However, occasionally an exception is made in the case of a pilot of long standing.

Q. Are mines used in harbor and coast defense in time of peace? H. T. B.
A. They are not used in times of peace; they are employed only for defense in war.

The idea is also carried out in the evening mode and appears on many scarfs and shawls.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

At Sea — Old lady Atlantic, the hussy, has settled down after acting up and showing off the way she did yesterday. The big liner moves with the placidity of a swan on a lake. A marvelous red sun, like a bloated tangerine, hangs high, dappling the spray with prisms of pink. It is a nice buggy ride.

Everybody seems in a mood, tra la, to leap for buttercups. But a slight squall and back we go to our cabins to look pale and interesting and nibble at a water cracker. Such is the way of the debilitated sea. Booming whisky sour, dry martinis and such.

Deck chair loungers are becoming acquainted. Mr. Roy Burton, of the Olaf, Kan., Burtons, is parading in his new golf pants. Miss Minnie Clark has turned to her long-neglected neighbor—listed as "Duchess de Polivine and maid"—and inquired brightly: "First trip?" and received a curt: "11th."

And the usual voyage romances are burgeoning. Young people are pairing off and by dusk will be quitting the promenade for the top deck to await the moon and the old story. The eagle-eyed card sharks are spotting their prey. And the poor gent across the companionway still has the heaves.

Our cabin boy Charlot, in his flaming red uniform and tambourine cap is 16 years old and cannot remember how many times he has crossed the ocean. Some day, he says, he is going to be master of a ship, and he blushes delightedly at the suggestion he has a girl in every port, the little Romeo.

Among the familiar faces are those of Mrs. Irvin Cobb, Prof. John Erskine C. F. Bertelli, George Ullman, a gentleman who once pushed me off a New York sidewalk for stepping on his foot, and another gentleman who owes me $30. Small world, mates. And then there is Henry Villar, the purser.

M. Villar abandoned a great legal maritime practice to follow the sea. He is the supreme essence of French politeness. For every lady he has a jackknife bow and a hand kiss. His voice is a silken caress and he seems more fitted for a Lonsdale boudoir drama than the rough and tumble life of the ocean.

I like to round up in the Grand Guignol in the late afternoon to see the Punch and Judy show for the children. Other old rams are there explaining they come merely to watch the children—the hars. They come just as I to see the show. The maestro is a venerable Frenchman—M. Antoine—who is winding up his days as a magician with a traveling circus amusing the kiddies. He tells me he has a son who is a ranch owner in Montana. He is 81.

At the Guignol are many little children of the rich with their governesses. At five and six these American tots understand and speak French perfectly which is quite confusing to those of us who have struggled for years to master enough phrases to order a meal and then when handed a menu always go up in our lines.

It seems to me steamship lines should abandon the custom of listing passengers as first, second and third class. That is rank and undesired snobbery. As a matter of fact, some of the most distinguished passengers travel second class. Among them you find no glittering questionnaires and new rich showoffs. They are mostly the seasoned travelers who know the ropes and have learned they can travel just as comfortably at a cheaper price. If it weren't for this class distinction nearly all of us would travel second class. Just a fass-budget.

On the promenade deck today two Frenchmen with glistening spade-shaped beards seemed to be in the throes of epileptic seizures—waving their arms, rolling their eyes and exchanging torrents of conversation. Then they stopped suddenly, held each other at arm lengths and bestowed kisses on each cheek. I don't know whether it was a fight or frolic; but it was dandy fun to watch. Nor was it nice for a passing cloak and sulter in a big plaid cap to cry out: "Get hot, boys!"

Overheard from a steamer chair: Lady, rather enthusiastically: I bear Adolph Menjou is among the passengers.

Gentleman, rather bored: Yeah? What am I supposed to do—run a temperature?

And I have found an admirer in a San Franciscan in the smoking room. "I read everything," he said, "that you and Neysa McMein write." Copyright, 1929, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

On the morning of the day I write this I visited the children's pavilion of a great hospital. I happened to run into an old friend of mine who has charge of the babies. It always does me good to meet this great doctor. He is enthusiastic over his work and devoted to the cause of humanity. Sometimes he is spoken of as "the doctor of doctors" because he is called so frequently to see patients in doctors' families.

I started to tell you of one little patient I saw in the hospital. This little youngster is only 22 months old, but my doctor friend carried the child through a terrific attack of pneumonia. The clinical chart showed the temperature actually reached more than 107 degrees.

It is very rare indeed for the fever to reach any such point. I recall a patient I saw soon after the Spanish war when the temperature went even higher than this. But that occurred in a man of naturally strong and vigorous body who could withstand such an experience.

The ailment of the baby I am talking about started with a mild attack of influenza. As a matter of fact, the danger of influenza is in the secondary involvement of the lungs. Uncomplicated influenza is not serious. But when the lungs are attacked then there is trouble.

Many a baby has become the victim of pneumonia as a result of a common cold. Babies do not resist colds as grown people do. An ailment which is of no particular importance to an adult may be serious indeed if it attacks an infant.

The respiratory diseases are the most serious disturbances that babies have. They are responsible for most of the fatalities among infants. I am telling you all this with one purpose in mind. I beg of you to guard your baby against infections of the nose and throat. What we speak of as "just a cold" may be nothing more to a grown-up, but to the baby a cold is a serious matter. Don't forget that the common cold must be regarded as an infectious Learn the Value of Neatness.

"Just like a man; you want something and you expect it to jump up and say 'here am I!'"

A married woman spoke thus to her husband who was complaining that he could not find something that he wanted.

Does this case apply to you? You become irritable if you cannot immediately find what you are seeking.

Perhaps it is close at hand but your impatience prevents you from seeing it or from making as thorough a search as you should to find what you want.

This is especially true of the man who arrives at his home and lays his coat, hat and muffler in the most handy place.

If the house is to retain a tidy appearance they don't remain there. Someone hangs them up.

Unless there is a regular place for your things they cannot be found readily by anyone but the one who put them away.

And there should be established places for the things worn every day. A proper place would be useless if not used by the wearer of coats and hats and overshoes.

Where did you throw your outer garments when you came home to day?

Years of Light.

Recent astronomical measurements stagger the imagination.
What specks of dust are men, nations, continents, the earth, the sun and the solar system! Contemplation of the vastness of creations, as reported before the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its annual meeting, induces a sensation of insignificance and helplessness from which the only relief seems to be the conception of an all-inclusive creator.

The measuring unit of celestial space is the light year. This is the distance light travels in a year, moving at approximately 186,000 miles a second.

The earth is 50,000 light years away from the center of a galaxy containing billions of stars, of which the sun is an ordinary type. This galaxy was all of creation, up to a few years ago.

The entire galaxy is revolving about a center 50,000 light years away from the earth somewhat as the earth itself revolves on its axis—and with incredible speed. This involves the staggering conception of a celestial day of 300,000,000 years, the time required for a single revolution.

But this whole galaxy, in which we are such insignificant particles, itself appears to be only an insignificant part of creation. Millions of light years beyond it are other galaxies, each revolving on its own axis, each as significant as that which centers in the Milky way.

And all the galaxies together, it appears, form one system of creation which is itself revolving about a center. It is a creation in which there is no near or far, no past or future, except as these conceptions have been formed in three human mind.

Beyond the rather galaxy lies outer space—the abode of nothingness, the nature of which baffles even the astronomical imagination. It is not space in any real sense of the word, for space can not exist without points of reference, without objects to exist between. It is not time, for time is movement in space.

It is the mystical, sublime; unimaginable nothing through which creation whirls, creating space and time in its path.—Washington Star.

When your child is sleepless.

This remedy rarely fails.

Constipation will blunt the keenest intellect, and many a child is classed as "dull" through bowels failing to act regularly. They need mother's watchful care. If your child is listless, dull and out of sorts, it means that the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with constipated waste. Just give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and soon all the sour bile and irritating poison are moved from the bowels, and the child is bright and energetic again. "California Fig Syrup" cleans and regulates the bowels, and insures pure blood, clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and promotes sturdy growth. To be sure that the Fig Syrup you buy is the genuine, look for the name "California" on the package.

avoid "dosing" CHILDREN for Colds and Flu

A peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system and too much "dosing" still further disturbs the digestion just when the child needs all his reserve strength to fight off the flu.

Internal medication should be avoided, therefore, except on the advice of a physician. As Vicks VapoRub is applied externally, it can be used freely, even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting the most delicate stomach.

A Safe External Treatment

When flu is around, don't let children keep a cold overnight. At the very first sign, put the child to bed. Apply hot wet towels on the throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel.

Leave the bed-covering loose around the neck so that Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body warmth, can be freely inhaled. They are breathed in direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and clearing the head.

At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

After a Flu-Attack

Don't let the children get up too soon, rest in bed helps nature to build up the vitality. Don't let them work or play too hard, and be careful to avoid sudden chills.

Above all, stop every cold at the start. At this time, more than ever, colds attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis, abscess of the ear, sinus-trouble, or pneumonia.

Equally good for adults. Of course, Vicks 2-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles as it is for children's

AN exquisite, velvety skin is any girl's greatest charm, and for a screen star it is all important, leading motion picture directors say.

"Screen history has proved that the clearest make-up can't imitate beautiful skin under the glare of the close-up. I don't know a single girl without really lovely skin who has won enough of the public to become a star," says William Beaudine, director for Fox Films.

"A star must always guard the perfection of her skin—the glaring lights of the close-up reveal the slightest unevenness," Merna Kennedy explains.

The next time you see her in a close-up notice how fine and smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin or Clara Bow's, Bebe Daniels', May McAvoy's. When next you see your favorite screen star, whoever she is, remember that nine out of every ten lovely stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin.

Indeed, all the great film studios, following these stars' example, have made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in all dressing rooms.

The exacting screen stars like the fact that this delicately fragrant white soap is made by the French method. "It gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only fine French soap could give," Renée Adorée says. You, too, will like its caressing lather that leaves your skin so satin smooth. Use it for the bath, too, and the shampoo, as the screen stars do.

'Prayer' Sermon Topic At Nazarene Revival

All Things are Possible To Believers, Rev. J. M. Huff Tells Hearers.

CHESTER, W. Va., Jan. 22.—That all things are possible to believers was stressed by the Rev. J. M. Huff, of Olivet, Ind., in his initial week night service of a three-week evangelistic campaign in the Nazarene church last night. The series of meetings was begun on Sunday.

Known as the Huff-Eby evangelistic trio, the Rev. Mr. Huff, a revivalalist of many years' experience, is being assisted by his daughter, Miss Opal Huff, as accompanist, and R. T. Eby, both also of Olivet, Ind., as musical director.

The church was all but filled. The visiting evangelists were assisted by the pastor, the Rev. James F. Ward, in the preliminary services.

Vocal Selections Featured.

Mr. Eby, accompanied by Miss Huff, sang twice, his numbers being "I Remember the Time" and "The Garden of Prayer." He is possessed of an appealing tenor voice.

Plans were announced for continued cottage prayer services.

It was announced that Wednesday would be Business Men's night. The service of Thursday night is to be emphasized by the presence of fathers and mothers, and Friday evening will be given over in preliminary activities to public school pupils.

The theme of the Rev. Mr. Huff was "Prayer" which he based on Mark 9:23-24.

Yearning for God.
"Prayer is the sincere desire of the human heart to God for something a

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 50c, 60c.

person needs" averred the Rev. Mr. Huff. "There must be a definiteness of plea. What is wanted must be declared in genuine yearning, unuttered or expressed.

"Faith brings about the accomplishment of prayer. The lack of accomplishment is due to the lack of faith. To prevent such one must be directed into a channel carrying faith in God."

Having been at one time a locomotive engineer, the Rev. Mr. Huff used apt illustrations from the "iron horse." He tellingly indicated the packing necessary about axles and the pertinent need for constant lubrications. Prayer, he held, created a communion of spirit with the Almighty, a departure approximating the lubrication for engines.

Campaign Ends Feb. 3.

"It was a basic Scriptural truth that Jesus declared," he concluded, "when to the father of the son afflicted with a dumb spirit who came to Him for relief He asserted 'If thou canst but believe, all things are possible to him that believeth.'

"And its consummation was indicated in the retort of the suffering, but suddenly, believing, parent who, drenched in acquired faith, exclaimed: 'Lord, I believe; help thou my unbelief.'

"And the faith thus indicated resulted in the boy's instant cure."

"The same spiritual law still obtains. As we believe so will it be unto us."

The meetings are scheduled to continue until February 3.

WHO MAKES YOUR FIRE INSURANCE RATE?

Trained experts compute it; but property owners—individually and collectively—create the conditions which determine the cost of their fire insurance.

Several major factors enter into the determination of fire insurance rates, such as structure, occupancy, the quality of private and public fire protection, exposure from other property, general loss experience.

The agent who writes your insurance—or your broker—or you, yourself—can obtain an itemized explanation of how your insurance rate is computed. There is nothing secret about it.

The Stock Fire Insurance Companies solicit your interest, and offer free of charge the advice of rate-making bureaus to assist in eliminating hazards or correcting defects which may result in lowering your rate.

Do not attempt unsound fire prevention measures, but seek the advice of the accredited experts of rating bureaus who are anxious to tell you the proper way to make improvements.

Insurance companies generally prefer risks eligible to a low rate to those which carry higher ones. A low rate indicates better conditions, better maintenance and less chance of fire.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters does not make rates and has nothing to do with rate making. As a bureau of standards it does supply rate makers with units for measuring the comparative strength and usefulness of materials and devices.

In Ohio fire insurance rates are computed by the Ohio Inspection Bureau, with offices at Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo, Akron, Dayton, Youngstown, Lima, Springfield, Portsmouth and Steubenville.

STEAMERS RUSH TO FREIGHTER IN DISTRESS

Teesbridge, in Mid-ocean, Sends Out S. O. S. Call.

SEVERAL RESPOND

Vessel is Reported 600 Miles East of Newfoundland.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Several vessels, including the Belgian steamer Calcasieu and the British steamer Maine, were speeding to the assistance of the British freighter Teesbridge which was reported in distress in mid-ocean, the Radio Marine corporation stated today.

The Teesbridge sent out an S. O. S. call yesterday asking for immediate assistance and giving her position as longitude 48°26' west and latitude 41°00' north, which is about 600 miles east of Newfoundland.

The distressed freighter sailed from Fowey, England, on January 9, bound for Philadelphia. The vessel's tonnage is 2,546.

Hit Hilltop Sewer

In West Sixth street to the manhole at Dresden avenue and Sixth street. Another resolution authorized H. P. Woelting to extend, at his own expense, the Orchard Grove avenue sewer to a home under construction. A resolution, providing for the surfacing of Walnut street with concrete instead of brick, was placed on first reading. Attempt to suspend the rules was blocked. Councilman Fleming was the only member to oppose the resolution on first reading, but was joined by Altman, Ferguson and Frost on the suspension motion. Green, Hughes and Lindell supported the resolution.

Authorize Damage Settlement.

Two other resolutions and two ordinances were enacted on three read. They were: Resolution authorizing the city solicitor to make settlement with the Charles Wilson estate for an amount not to exceed $115 for damages alleged to have been done to Wilson's property in the improvement of Dresden avenue; resolution appointing Ray Adam, Charles Craig and D. F. Nellis members of a board to fix assessments for the improvement of Dresden avenue; ordinance authorizing Private Edly Post No. 66, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to improve city lot at the northeast corner of Third and Market streets by planting trees and shrubbery and also mount the old city hall bell at that point; ordinance, providing for a minimum heat of 68 degrees, Fahrenheit, for public buildings, lodge halls, of flats, apartments and rooming houses. Councilman Fleming opposed passage of the latter ordinance, sponsored by the Sons of Veterans, claiming that the heating of buildings was a matter between landlord and tenant.

Local notices of assessments for the Oakwood avenue, Crook and Diamond alley, West Ninth street and Spring Grove avenue improvements, were read by Clerk Shone. He was instructed to advertise the assessments.

Residents of Brushon alley submitted a petition opposing the grading and surfacing of that thoroughfare this year. The petition was signed by 11 property holders, representing 450 feet frontage. An ordinance declaring it necessary to improve the street was tabled pending an investigation of the petition.

Protest Market House Fund Transfer. Allen A. Burrows, representing Trades and Labor council, protested against the transfer of the Market house bonds to a sinking fund commission. He questioned the legality of the procedure. A communication from W. M. McFar, secretary of Trades council, voicing a protest against council's action, was read and ordered filed.

M. W. Reed, Dresden avenue, complained relative to the condition of the unimproved section of that street. He suggested that the dirt section of the road should be improved with slag or cinders. His complaint was referred to the street committee and the service-safety director.

Residents of West Ninth street filed a protest against the construction of poles by the Ohio Bell company in the narrow section of the street. It was stated that the line might be taken along Moore street, which is less congested. The complaint was also referred to the streets committee.

East Seventh Street Issue. President Hayes named Councilmen Lindell, Ferguson and Fleming as a committee to meet with the street car company to iron out differences relative to the controversy over vacating the east sidewalk in College street.

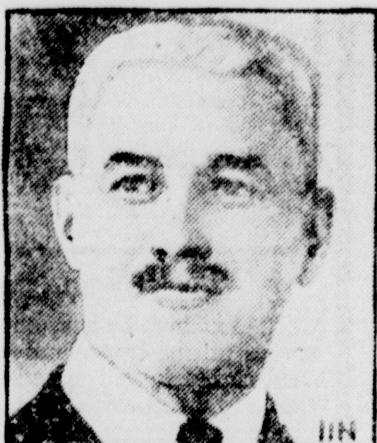

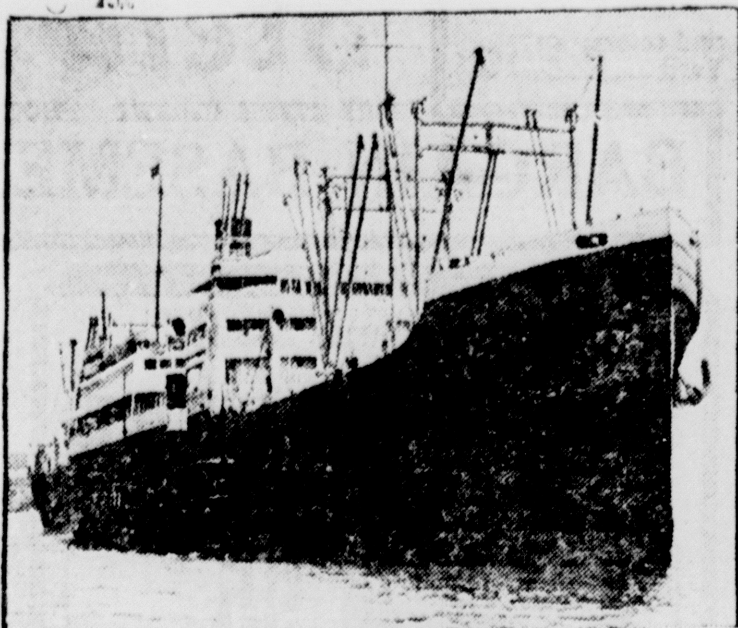

Councilman Hughes submitted a motion directing the ordinance committee to bring in an ordinance, at the next meeting, providing for the surfacing of East Seventh street, formerly Smith street, between Green lane and Lincoln avenue. His motion was voted down and another motion for the resurfacing of the street between Dresden avenue and Lincoln avenue submitted. He was the only member to oppose this motion.

The improvement of East Seventh street has been hanging fire since last fall, because of a controversy between the city and the abutting property holders over the type of the improvement.

Woman is Forced to Flee $50,000 Fire in Ohio City

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Jan. 22.—One woman was forced to flee in her night clothing from the Van Martyn building here this morning when it was destroyed by fire. Loss is estimated at $50,000, the structure being valued at $20,000.

The fire is believed to have been caused either by an overheated stove or defective wiring. The first signs of the fire were discovered in a small storage room at the rear of the building shortly after 6 o'clock, and had already gained considerable headway. Mrs. William Mathys was asleep in her apartment on the second floor. She was aroused and rushed from the building in night attire.

The Van Martyn block housed an electric shop, barber shop and meat market, the stock and fixtures of all being consumed by the flames.

The Ohio river steamboats today resumed trips between Pittsburgh, Wheeling and Cincinnati as the many gorges of ice have been cleared from the stream by the recent rise.

The steamers Betsy Ann and General Wood are in the dry docks at Pittsburgh undergoing repairs and will not be ready for the river trade before February 1.

SCREEN ACTRESS ASKS LOVE BALM

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 22.—With a sheaf of torrid love missives, which she alleges were written to her by Ferdinand Pinney Earle, one-time motion picture producer, as foundation for her suit, Dolores L. Salazar, film actress, today was suing Earle for $150,000.

The actress said Earle persuaded her to accompany him to Mexico, then to Paris in where she said he deserted her.

ICE-BOUND TUGS GET COAL, FOOD

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Jan. 22.—Captain William Preston of the coast guard station here today was organizing a crew of men to carry two tons of coal and provisions to the crews of the Bertha G and C. J. Bos, two stranded local fishing tugs, which have been held in the ice six miles out since Friday.

The coal will be trucked to Agnew to within a few hundred feet of the shore. The coast guard men will then take canvas bags holding 75 pounds on their backs and trudge over the ice field to the boats.

The rough snow and ice makes sledding impossible. The tugs have 6,100 pounds of trout aboard which the sailors are eating.

CHEER HOOVER AS HE SPEEDS TOWARD MIAMI

President-elect is Warmly Greeted in Florida.

WAVE GREETINGS

Few Stops Made on Trip to Fishing Grounds.

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER TO MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 22.—President-elect Hoover was warmly greeted today as his special train sped down the east coast of Florida toward Miami Beach where he plans a month's work and play.

The citizens of this new Republic can state turned out at every station and hamlet along the line of the Florida East Coast railway to wave their greetings.

In a hurry to reach the fishing grounds off Miami, however, the president-elect made few stops. The first was at Jacksonville before daylight this morning. At New Smyrna there was a crowd of several hundred but Mr. Hoover was breakfasting and did not appear again. At Melbourne and at Vero Beach the station platform was lined with people, but the special only slowed down slightly.

A five-minute operating stop was made at Fort Pierce where there was another crowd.

Gen. Vivian Collins, adjutant general of the state, boarded the train at St. Augustine early this morning and officially welcomed Mr. Hoover to the state on behalf of Governor Doyle Carlton.

OHIOAN IS SLAIN IN HIS HOME

The shooting occurred in Johnson's home and before dying in a hospital he named Ward as his assailant. Witnesses said the altercation which led to the shooting started when Ward made disparaging remarks about Johnson's wife.

Ward fled after the shooting, witnesses said.

PEAK OF FLU EPIDEMIC PASSES

The reports showed that the number of new cases is considerably lower for all sections except New England, where small increases are noted.

VERA REYNOLDS ADMITS MARRIAGE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 22.—The theory that a woman can not keep a secret was set on another setback here today when it was learned that Vera Reynolds, screen actress, has been married to Robert Ellis, stage and screen actor, for the last three years. They were married in Paris in May, 1926. The marriage was kept a secret because Miss Reynolds had a contract with a non-marriage clause in it.

tax refund of $15,000,000 in one year, paid in that same year $173,000,000 in taxes.

That interests "big steel" stockholders. It indicates that their property is well managed, profitable.

THE New York Central Railroad, on its 35-story office building, installs a gigantic searchlight that will so shine "in a naughty world" as to startle Shakespeare's little candle.

It will light up many inhabitants of "Easy street" as it streams up and down Park avenue and over into Fifth avenue.

"BIG STEEL" went up $21 a share last week, increasing the wealth of those that own it by $14,700,000. And that was only one little item in the week's prosperity. If you have anything good, in the United States, hold on to it. If not, as the late Collis P. Huntington would say, GET something.

SOME elderly New Yorkers worry about big buildings, convinced that "they must sooner or later cause Manhattan Island to sink."

It will comfort them to know that under New York there is solid rock going down 60 miles. All the tall buildings make about as much difference as a few pebbles on the Rock of Gibraltar.

OUR earth dwelling is substantial. Prof. Michelson of Chicago university has proved that its rigidity, which means its resistance to any power that might pull it out of shape, is as great as though it were made of solid steel.

MICHELSON established earth's rigidity by measuring the rise and fall of the tide in a pipe one inch in diameter and more than a mile long. Not everybody realizes that the tide rises and falls in your teacup or in a canary bird's drinking vessel, just as it does in the ocean, only the tide is not so high or low.

STATISTICS show that 1,223,000 houses in this country have electric refrigerators. That is only 6.4 percent of the houses that are electrical wired and could have them. All will have them eventually.

USE of electric machinery in the home, sweepers, washing machines, fans, irons, mangles, exercising apparatus, has increased enormously in the past year.

L. J. Horowitz, head of Thompson-Starrett, biggest building concern, announces privately a new electric cooking stove that will be operated as cheaply as a gas stove. That will interest General Electric and Westinghouse.

MR. STEWART, head of Standard Oil of Indiana, is making a hard fight against the Rockefeller effort to get rid of him.

Odds are against Mr. Stewart for one reason. If he wins, as many in Wall Street predict that he will, his company will be "out of touch" with the other Standard Oil units.

THAT may be a disadvantage and big stockholders will think it over.

When little octopuses fall out the one with three to one against it may suffer. Mr. Glanville, California financier whose Bancitaly Company holds tens of thousands of Standard Oil shares, votes his stock with the Rockefeller.

THE government owns hundreds of big ships, reminders of wartime graft, incapacity, or haste, rusting away at anchor. Some one suggests making of them yacht clubs to be anchored along the Hudson shore.

ANY use would be better than none. Why not use some ships for boys' bathing houses, room to exercise on deck, dressing rooms below, high diving for big boys and stairs down to the water for little boys. Philanthropic organizations. Boy Scouts especially, could arrange that. (Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.)

CLEVELAND BAN ON NIGHT CLUB

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22.—Cleveland's Texas Guinans and Helen Morgans were a bit down in the mouth today. The reason is that a husky patrolman has been stationed at the entrance of the Palais Dor, one of the brightest and jazziest night clubs in the city.

The closing was ordered by Safety Director Ed Barry following complaints from patrons who allege they were beaten up by waiters.

One of the managers of the club is Edward T. Harwood, son of Police Captain Michael Harwood, already under fire in the grand jury probe of vice conditions here.

Tischbein's Portrait for Cleveland. BERLIN, Jan. 22.—The German government will present to the city of Cleveland, Ohio, a copy of Tischbein's portrait of Gotthold Ephraim Lessing on the 200th anniversary of Lessing's birth. It was announced today. Lessing was a noted German poet, critic and writer of prose.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum, who is owner of an East End drug store, will preside at Ohio State Pharmaceutical association's mid-year convention to be held Wednesday and Thursday in the Desher-Wallick hotel, Columbus.

Congressman Clyde Kelly of Braddock, Pa., will explain the status of the Capper-Kelly fair trade bill now pending in congress. E. L. Newcomb, secretary of the National Wholesale Druggists' association, will make a report on the druggists' research bureau. The convention will close Thursday night with a banquet.

RIVER DRAGGED FOR FOUR BODIES

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 22.—Waters of the Cape Fear river were dragged again today, and airplanes scouted over the semi-tropical swamps of Brunswick county for the bodies of four missing hikers, now believed to be dead.

The youths, Jesse, Elliot and Randolph Higgins, and Fred Engler, have been missing since Friday. Three aviators were injured Sunday while returning from the swamp area, where they had searched most of the day. They will recover, physicians said.

Dedicate New Bexley Church in Columbus

Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, Cincinnati, Officiates at Services—Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler Pastor.

With Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, Cincinnati, in charge, the new Bexley Community Methodist Episcopal church, in Bexley, a suburb of Columbus, of which the Rev. Frank G. Fowler, D. D. formerly of East Liverpool, is pastor, was formally dedicated Sunday.

Open house was maintained at the church between 2 and 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, while a program by the St. Paul's Episcopal church choir was featured Sunday.

An organ dedicatory service was held last night with a special program of organ music, while tonight will be "Bexley Ught" in which greetings will be extended by ministers of nearby churches.

Wednesday night will be "Church Night," with an sermon by Dr. E. C.

Wareing, editor of the Western Christian Advocate. Young People's and Religious Education night will be observed Thursday, when the Rev. Louis C. Wright, pastor of the Epworth-Euclid Methodist Episcopal church of Cleveland, will preach.

The Bexley Men's club will meet for supper at 6 o'clock Friday night, the supper to be followed by an entertainment at 7:30 o'clock. Communion will be observed next Sunday morning, and a musical program featured at the evening service.

The Bexley church is an imposing stone structure, costing $300,000. It is located at East Broad street and Cassingham road in an exclusive residential section in East Columbus.

Poland's air network now has a total length of 1,386 miles.

REV. W. H. BAKER OPENS REVIVAL IN OWN CHURCH

Poteau, Okla., Workers Assist in Campaign Here.

CROWD ATTENDS

Special Musical Features Will be Heard Nightly.

With a large crowd in attendance a three-week revival was launched in the First Church of Christ, East Fourth street, last night. Directing it, the Rev. W. H. Baker, the pastor, delivered a sermon on "The New Birth."

Assisting him are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Blard, veteran evangelistic workers, of Poteau, Okla. The former is a soloist and musical director and the latter accompanist and junior laborer.

Mr. and Mrs. Blard came here from Bryan, the seat of Williams county, where they were engaged in a campaign at the First Church of Christ.

"I always conduct my own revival services," declared Rev. Mr. Baker last night. He is a new comer to East Liverpool within the year. Coming from Lima, he succeeded the Rev. B. R. Johnson, who on Feb. 1, last, accepted a call to Indianapolis, Ind.

Aided in Sunday Campaign. Arriving here during the Easter services, the Rev. Mr. Baker at once plunged into the union meetings then being held, identified himself actively later with the Ministerial association and was equally active in participation in the Billy Sunday campaign recently held here.

In his brief interim as pastor locally he has made a favorable impression in church circles.

An equally splendid impression was made by Mr. and Mrs. Blard following their introduction at the revival gathering.

With every choir seat occupied the signers responded feelingly to the direction of Mr. Blard as Mrs. Blard accompanied on organ and piano. For his solo he sang, "Speak To Me Only of Jesus."

Afternoon Meetings. Special musical features are to be

RAILROAD MAN CALLS KONJOLA 90 H. P. REMEDY

"Gave Me Most Wonderful Relief—Have My Old Time Health and Strength Again."

MR. C. L. BRYANT.

Remarkable, indeed, are many of the endorsements that come from delighted men and women who have found in Konjola the one and only remedy that brought relief long sought in vain.

One of the unusual experiences is that of Mr. C. L. Bryant, Elberon avenue, Cincinnati, an employee for many years of the Big Four Railroad. Mr. Bryant, delighted and amazed over this new medicine says:

"Konjola certainly proved a ninety horse-power remedy in my case. A year ago I started to suffer from severe pains in my back, limbs and arches of my feet. I was scarcely able to attend to my work, and all that I tried helped me not a bit. Fellow trainmen, who knew of the wonders of Konjola advised me to try this new compound. Two bottles showed me that I was on the right track, and with all the signals set for the trip to health. Five bottles banished every pain and ache, and in that five weeks I gained 15 pounds. All my old strength was back of the job with all my old time vigor. Konjola went right to the source of my trouble. My liver and kidneys were cleansed and put to work; the poisons were driven from my body, and I threw away the arches that did my feet no good at all. Today I am better than I have been for years, and I owe it all to Konjola."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool, O., at Carahan's drug store, and all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

will be continued with an entire night next week being given over to them under her direction.

From Jesus' words to Nicodemus stressing the fundamental need for a new birth ere the kingdom of God can be entered the Rev. Mr. Baker argued for that which makes possible the genuine Christian. His text was John 3:14.

"A surrendered life to Jesus Christ, shorn of all worldly entanglements constitutes the new birth," he indicated. "It must be an unconditional surrender. One can not hold on to some desire or departure inimicable to obedience to His word."

"New Birth" Topic.

He referred to the sale by Esau of his birthright in the Old Testament. "That was but the boon that went with patriarchal birth," he observed. "The birth emphasized to Nicodemus, and which is equally demandful of us, is a spiritual birth. It makes for a changed nature causing one to hate the things he once loved and to love that he once hated. In a word it makes of one a new creature in Christ Jesus."

Delving further into the mysteries of the new birth, the Rev. Mr. Baker will speak tonight on "Evidences of the New Birth." By it he will show how one may know whether such a change has come to those claiming adherence to religion.

No afternoon meetings, except those for the juniors, are to be held this week.

High Damage Claims Halt Road Project

Property Owners Along Proposed Summitville-Kensington Road Ask Nearly $20,000 in Hearing Before Commissioners.

WELLSVILLE, O., Jan. 22.—Proposed improvement of the Summitville-Kensington road to provide a completely paved route from the Ohio river to the Lincoln highway via Wellsville, Salineville, Summitville and Kensington, has been postponed indefinitely as a result of damage claims, totalling nearly $20,000, filed with the county commissioners by property owners along the road.

Claim after claim was filed with the commissioners yesterday during the hearing on the proposed improvement. Because of the fact that Carroll county is unable to finance construction of a new road on the present traveled route, passing through a section of East township, Columbiana county commissioners had decided on a new route. It is on this latter route that the damage claims were filed. It was indicated by the commissioners that under the circumstances it is doubtful whether the road will be built this year.

On one other highway in the county where improvements have been authorized have damage claims been so high, declare commissioners.

However, improvement of the North Georgetown-Westville road, passing Lake Placencia in Knox township, will be put through immediately, no property damage claims having been filed in this instance.

MISSION STUDY MEET POSTPONED

Meeting of the Mission Study class of the Second Presbyterian church, to have been held Wednesday night at the manse, Eighteenth street, has been postponed one week on account of the death of Mrs. Frank Hough.

Wed in Lisbon.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Margaret Panelli, Salineville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Panelli, to James Xenos, Cleveland, which was solemnized yesterday by Justice M. K. Zimmerman, Lisbon.

'CONFESSED' HE ROBBED P. O.

Wellsville Man's Story is Doubtful by Authorities.

Man giving his name as Frank Denam, 24, of Wellsville, under arrest at Carrollton, has confessed that he was one of six men who robbed the Steubenville postoffice of $40,000 several months ago, according to reports from Steubenville.

While authorities here know no one by the name of Frank Denam, they are aware of the arrest, they say, of John Denmore and Clyde Earlich, Jr., in Carrollton on a bad check charge similar to that on which "Denam" is said to be held. It is believed there is a mistake in names.

Sheriff William Yost quizzed the man for several hours yesterday, however, and decided that the man's "confession" was a fake.

OPEN BANKS AT COTERIE MEET

Concluding a three-month saving campaign during which members of the congregation of the Second Presbyterian church earned money and deposited it in small banks assigned them for the purpose, a meeting of the membership will be held Thursday night in the manse under auspices of the Calendar Coterie club.

The small banks will be opened and the funds will be assigned to aid in payment of expenses in connection with the reconstruction of the church. Program of music, readings, plays and other events will be given. Lunch will be served.

FIRE DAMAGES BAKING PLANT

Schnovell Shop, Salineville, Threatened by Blaze.

Fire, believed to have originated from a wiring circuit, damaged the John Schnovell bakery, west Main street, Salineville, this morning at 8 o'clock. Loss is estimated at $100.

Mrs. William Smith, who lives near the bakeshop, observed smoke pouring from one of the windows and immediately notified the Schnovell family, breakfasting.

Firemen prevented the blaze from spreading.

Local Basketeers Change Lineup For Game With Canton Quint

Scoring Power is Boosted

George Ramsey, Nate Lippe New Threats Against Sherers.

CANTON'S Sherer Soda Grills, billed as the Stark county metropolis' leading road club for the last several seasons, had no strangers to Pottery City fans as a result of their showing in the last two Tri-State amateur tournaments here, will test the strength of the revamped East Liverpool cage squad tomorrow night when they clash on the auditorium court.

Bookings of the Sherer Grills is in keeping with the policy of the club management to send the ceramics against the best that can be procured, except in cases, of course, where prospective opponents demand guarantees that only the U. S. mint can meet.

Last Wednesday, the Potters dropped a close decision to the Pittsburgh Knickerbockers, champs of the West Penn circuit, in their opening tilt. A week from tomorrow night they take on another tough one in the Cleveland Favorite Knits.

In the meantime they'll be having their hands full with the Stark county outfit.

Travel 1,500 Miles.

The Sherer Grills, it will be remembered, met their Waterloo in last spring's Tri-State tourney here at the hands of the Federal Reserve bank five of Cleveland which went on to the finals.

To date this season, the Grills, under the business management of Rex McConnell, formerly of East Liverpool, have traveled more than 1,500 miles and expect to cover as much more territory in completing its expansive road schedule through the district.

It is one of the few teams able to boast three brothers as regular players. They are the Jacob brothers, whose father, John, is an ardent sports booster in Canton.

Johnny Jacobs, who saw service with Ohio State varsity a few years ago, is captain and guard; Harry is a forward, and the "kid" brother, "Wib," also is a forward.

In addition to the Jacob family there are also Glen Adair, former McKinley high school star, a center and Harry "Red" Van Altham, for years outstanding in the Canton district as basketball stars. Both are guards.

Sherers Gave Bulls Battle.

Ted Combs, a forward, and former McKinley high star, is regarded as one of the best players turned out under the Peabody regime.

Helene Kattman, of Ohio Northern university, will soon join the Sherers for the remainder of the season, along with "Mim" Robinson of Kenyon, also well known in East Liverpool.

The Sherers were noosed out by the crack Phil club of Sharon last week, 31 to 22 in a battle close until the final whistle. The Bulls, in turn, lost a close one to the Enchanted Raunds of the Allegheny county club.

The Sherers recently defeated the Brown-Guska quint at Toronto.

Bill Miller, guard with the Enchanted Raunds of the Allegheny county league, was named for that position on the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette's all-star county league team. Miller played a defense post for the locals last Wednesday night and although his shooting was off, his defense work and floor game was not. He played a brilliant game despite the fact that he was working with a new combination.

George Ramsey, center for the Goldensoons of the Allegheny league, who will battle for the tip Wednesday night here as a member of the East Liverpool club, also was picked on the all-star aggregation. Ramsey was a member of the famed Morry club of Pittsburgh, always a pennant contender in the former Central league.

Nate Lippe will be welcomed back to the fold tomorrow night. The Pittsburgh luminary, who this season is campaigning with the Miele-Franchinas of the Western Pennsylvania leaguers, was unable to evade league duties to get here for last Wednesday's scuffle. He will probably pair up with Fitch Smith on a forward.

Billiards

Owing to the fact that two of the original ten players forming the three-cushion league at the Club parlors have withdrawn from the circuit, the schedule has been changed slightly for the remainder of the season.

The games listed for this week follows:

Jan. 22—Webber vs. Crawford.
Jan. 23—Lowe vs. Pardell.
Jan. 24—Bennett vs. Bergner.
Jan. 25—Wallace vs. White.

Mountaineers Will Sponsor Indoor Meet

Athletes Within 100-mile Radius to Compete.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 22.—The "West Virginia Indoor Games" will be the official title of an athletic event to be inaugurated on the weekend of March 16, wherein invitations will be extended to all of the universities and colleges within a radius of 100 miles or more of Morgantown to send their crack sprinters, runners, jumpers, vaulters, hurdlers, relay competitors, and specialists in other weight and field events to compete in West Virginia university's new field house. It is planned that the event will be the first of a series of annual events for which individual and team prizes will be awarded.

In commenting on the possibilities which refer to this new program, Director H. A. Stansbury said: "Indoor track is a tremendous success wherever the facilities are available to sponsor it, and with our new field house providing its fine ten-lap track, first-class jumping and vaulting pits, and adequate facilities for the weight events, as well as almost unlimited locker and shower facilities, and likewise with unlimited seating capacity for spectators—all without crowding and jamming the competitors and the events, make for the propitious inauguration of an event which, in the course of a very few years promises to become one of the country's best known events of its kind."

It is planned that an official die shall be established from which gold, silver and bronze medals will be given to the winners in the various events with suitable team trophies for the triumphant Mr. Stansbury said, in addition to stating that details of the events are in the process of being worked out, including the invitation list and program of events and will be announced shortly.

Christner Talks Good Fight But He May Show Something

Walsh Impressed at Seriousness of Ohioan's Statements as He Preps For Sharkey.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Being a bright, very alert youth, full of enterprise and strength of character, the writer went forth to the gymnasium yesterday to see K. O. Christner in the flesh and stayed to listen to him in a daze. It was gathered, when the harangue was ended, that one of two things will be left after K. O.'s fight with Sharkey on Friday night, namely, New York by an early train and Jack Sharkey on the floor. As an audacious fighter, Christner is the most dangerous man we have had around here since the days when Sharkey himself was in good tongue.

The funny thing about this is that Christner makes you disposed to take him somewhat seriously, both by what he does in the training ring and by what he says out of it. He says he is going to tip Sharkey over as he tipped Knute Hansen and there are plenty of shapshooters in town who give him a good chance to do it. As for K. O. and his manager, Tom Lennon, they don't think this is a chance at all; they really believe the matter is settled.

Usually a manager and his fighter are good for a laugh when they start putting on an act like that, somehow, you are impressed in spite of yourself by this pair. They are so earnest. So convinced that what they say will happen, simply must happen. If the man was a mug in the ring, you could listen to him and then turn your attention to something important. But I wouldn't care to say that the man I saw in there yesterday is a mug. He looked the part of a crude fighter but a good one.

For one thing, he seems to be a crowding fighter who at the same time keeps his jaw protected. There are not too many of that kind. For another thing, he seems to be a right fair two-handed puncher, whereas we had been led to believe that he was right hand crazy. A man like that would have his troubles tagging Sharkey. But if he crowds the boy friend, punching industriously, as he did yesterday, there is going to be a prize fight on Friday night.

Christner throws a lot of punches from the third row balcony, and I don't think these will do him any great good. Sharkey weaves away from that kind. He won't weave and can't when you start dropping them into the fun parlor, for the weave is designed mostly for head protection. Christner looked as though he knew what some of it was about yesterday when he got in close. He uses a trick crouch which gives him the appearance of awkwardness but, in reality, serves to wrap that left shoulder well up around his jaw. The rent mink look better but I have seen many who looked good only to defraud the eyesight.

COURTNEY LOSES AS LIGHT HEAVY

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—George Courtney, Oklahoma cowboy, doesn't think so much of the light-heavyweight division today. George jumped out of the middleweight division in disgust because he couldn't land a match with Champion Mickey Walker. Making his first start last night as a light-heavy, he lost a ten-round decision here to Tiger Jack Payne, Australian Negro.

Presidents To Greet Old W. & J. Stars

Meet Nuss, Markley in Tilt With Bisons Tonight.

BETHANY, W. Va., Jan. 22.—When followers of the Washington and Jefferson cage quintet make their appearance at the Bethany-W. & J. game in the Irving gymnasium here tonight they will likewise pay homage to a pair of Washington, Pa., residents appearing in stellar roles in Bethany college basketball in Head Coach Furman L. Nuss and Arthur Markley. Coach Nuss received his early athletic training on the sandlots of Claysville, Pa., but later entered Wash. Jeff, where he became famous as a college griddler. Markley, who has been a mainstay on the Bison court teams for the past two years, makes his home in Washington, Pa.

The Green and White machine is expected nothing but keen competition from the Red and Black cagers. To guard against any overconfidence which may develop due to the fine showing of the team to date, Coach Nuss staged a strenuous workout yesterday, and he is in hopes that the Bisons have profited enough from it to present a certain aggressive game tonight against the Presidents.

The preliminary game at 7:15 brings together the Sophomores and Freshmen in a college inter-class league combat. Coach Carl Lund of the Frosh is in a determined mood for tonight's game in that the yearlings completely outclassed the Juniors yesterday by the score of 18-3 to keep in the running for the first half championship. Carl Hamill, sophomore mentor, is also in a victory mood as his charges defeated the Seniors 19-11 yesterday for their second win in three starts.

HIGH CAPTAIN LEADS SCORERS

Bobby Witherow.

Bobby Witherow, captain and running guard on Joe Hurst's high school basketball squad, is leading the Blue and White point makers in six games to date.

In contests with Rochester, Pa., the Alumni, Salem, Akron East, Steubenville and Marietta, Witherow has compiled a total of 36 markers, but is closely trailed by Davey Felt, forward, with 31.

Felt had 19 points and Witherow 27 prior to the Marietta tilt but Davey had a big night at the tabernacle, collecting six field goals to add 12 points to his goal, while Witherow was getting three buckets and three fouls for nine points.

Scoring to date stands as follows:	F.	G.	P.	T.P.
Witherow	13	10	36
Felt	14	3	31
McNutt	8	1	17
Chetwin	5	7	17

Yanks Buying Up Control in Minor Loops

Go in for "Chain Store" System of Operation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—It begins to look as though the New York Yankees in the buying up and refurnishing of minor league properties, under the chain-store system of operation, intended, it may be that they hope to make a couple of chunks out of Woolworth and Kresge. With their recent purchase of the Chambersburg club of the Blue Ridge League, the Yankees now have the controlling interest, or designs upon the same, in the following clubs:

St. Paul, American Association; Syracuse, Asheville, Montgomery, Albany, and Chambersburg. That makes six, in all, that they expect to incorporate in their chain and it may be that seventh will be the Jersey City outfit.

The Cards already have seven clubs flourishing under the banner of their patrimony, but then Branch Rickey was the originator of the idea and has been branching at will these several years. The Yanks are only starting and yet the finish seems to be in sight. These city fellows from New York certainly do things in a big, broad way.

What will happen in the event that Judge Landis can make his expressed antipathy for the system stand up is something for your imagination to dally with. If they throw the business overboard, baseball will have a violent attack of logoses on the bogoes, of which you can't uproot the plant life of the major league farm-ownership plan with a carefree gesture of the index finger. The objection to the system is that it gives the club operating it the control of too many ball players. To circumvent this, of course, all a rival club need to do is step out and establish its own connections. But some clubs are not too rich and others are not too generous and so they would legislate against a system that they either cannot or will not follow.

Serious Effect.

The effect of such legislation on the Blue Ridge League alone would be tremendous. This is only a Class D organization, yet the Yankees now own Chambersburg, the Philadelphia Athletics have control of Martinsburg; the Cleveland Indians have Frederick; the Detroit Tigers control Hanover, the Pirates Hagerstown and the Cardinals, Waynesboro.

Personally I can think of worse things that could happen to a small minor league than to have it practically owned by the rich majors. However, there isn't a thing in the world that can't be carried too far and it is obvious that too much major league domination of the minors might not react to the best interests of baseball.

The problem will find a solution as times goes on and the test of operation is furnished. And whatever the solution, it is evident that the Yankees don't believe it will be adverse to the chain-store plan. They wouldn't be buying ball clubs, otherwise; they would be doing nothing with marked success.

Weygant In Valley A. C. Main

Edwards Trains With Zivic, Now Under Foutts' Contract.

COINCIDENT with his announcement that he had signed Eddie Weygant, the Keystone state puncher, as one of the principals in his eight-round main event on the Valley A. C. program at Wellsville next Monday night, Matchmaker Ray Foutts today declared that Freddy Edwards, the Chester welter, and one of his semifinalists, will start training this week with Jack Zivic, the "Pittsburgh Bearcat."

Edwards, according to present arrangements, will work out over a period of four days with the Smoky City welterweight, sharpening his eye and developing his punches for his six-round go with Irish Tommy Harris on the Monday mitt program.

The Zivics have been working out recently with "Tarzan" Joe Poole and Jack Ungio and should be able to help along the Chester battler considerably.

In meeting Harris, Edwards is stepping up a little and naturally wants to be in top trim for the engagement.

The semi-final and the windup will complete a card that speaks action. In the first prelim "Poison" Pizzone takes on K. O. Franks of East Liverpool, and in the second, Kenney Davis of East Liverpool scuffles with Young Rodney of Midland.

Byron Foutts, Midland, Pa., brother of Ray Foutts, Valley A. C. matchmaker, has taken over active management of Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh welterweight, and expects to keep the lad who battered down some of the best boys in the weights busy from now on.

Zivic has been working out regularly and conscientiously and is back in shape again for a hard campaign. Here's how Foutts "tells the world" that he has Zivic in tow and what he expects of him:

"The world's hardest hitting welterweight and greatest box office attraction is in shape and ready to begin the drive which I feel sure will bring him Joe Dundee's welterweight title. Few boxing fans forget the two great battles between Benny Leonard and Lew Tander. Twenty-seven rounds of furious fighting without either man scoring a knockout. Leonard retired but Tander carried on to become the leading contender for the welterweight championship.

"Mickey Walker, the champion, and Tander met for the title at Philadelphia. Walker won the decision but never had the challenger in distress. The scene shifts to Pittsburgh. The great Tander is matched with a sleekhaired youth for a tune-up contest. For four rounds the "kid" battles Tander with his speed. The fans relax, feeling Lew has not opened up yet on his youthful opponent.

"The going rings for the fifth round. Suddenly the "kid" let fly a terrific left hook to the jaw. Down goes Tander as though shot. 'Impossible!' gasps the crowd. 'This same chin has taken the best that Benny Leonard and Mickey Walker could send.' The crowd yelled again—'He's up!' The referee had tolled the nine count. Lew immediately goes down again from a series of rights and lefts into a scramble to his feet at the count of four. This time another left hook and Lew went down for good. No count was necessary. The towel came in as Lew hit the floor. At last the great Tander has been knocked out, the only time in 13 years of boxing."

It's true that Jack Zivic did this and Foutts is confident that the Pittsburgher can do it again.

tem that they either cannot or will not follow.

Serious Effect.

The effect of such legislation on the Blue Ridge League alone would be tremendous. This is only a Class D organization, yet the Yankees now own Chambersburg, the Philadelphia Athletics have control of Martinsburg; the Cleveland Indians have Frederick; the Detroit Tigers control Hanover, the Pirates Hagerstown and the Cardinals, Waynesboro.

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

"If we went to another hotel, the fact would be instantly known, and the kitchen staff there might adopt the same tactics as the kitchen staff here. Solidarity! Solidarity!" The Count had completed his case very happily.

Mr. Sutherland had frequently noticed the word "solidarity" in newspaper accounts of altercations between labor and capital, and now for the first time really understood its significance. He glanced around at the stricken faces of the well-dressed, well-fed but hungry crowd. In every face he saw precisely what he was beginning to feel in his own heart, namely, the gradual, terrible, disturbed realization of the utter instability and insecurity of society. All had been well, and now all was ill. The members of the groups, and Septimius, had been nurtured in the beautiful, convenient theory that anything could be had by ringing bells and setting bills. They did not naught for themselves, and could do naught for themselves, and were somehow proud of their helplessness. With them, to ask was to have, and to pay was the solution of all difficulties.

"And now they were hungry and thirsty; they were in the grip of the most powerful of human passions, and no amount of bell-ringing and bill-paying could procure their satisfaction. No wonder they were perturbed. The situation was horrible. It seemed to announce blood in the streets and the downfall of kingdoms and of the entire social order.

"But," said Count Veruda, triumphant in his sense of the dramatic. "I have suggested a remedy. My yacht, the Vanguard, has come into harbor this afternoon. I invite everybody to dinner on board. If I may say so, I think I can offer as good a dinner as could be had in any hotel in the town, if not a better  And the Bay of Naples!  By moon light!"

This was the Count's grand climax. "You are most hospitable," said Mr. Sutherland blandly.

"Not at all," the Count deprecatingly protested, without, however, any attempt to be convincing. "But there are ladies who hesitate. Perhaps naturally!" The Count shared his polite amusement with the parquetry floor. "I hope I may count on you, Mr. Sutherland."

"Sutherland," Mr. Sutherland, to give me your support."

"Count," called a masculine old lady imperiously, at this important juncture.

The Dark Young Woman.

A dark, youngish and stylish woman thereupon came up to Mr. Sutherland, who bowed to her smile.

"I don't think he's what we should call a real count," murmured the dark young woman, confidentially, and with a certain assurance of manner. "Count of the Holy Roman Empire, or something like that. Official of the Papal Court. Probably when he's on duty he wears a uniform designed by Michael Angelo. He imagines he's a humorist, but he's funnier even than he thinks he is. However, even if he isn't a real count, he has a real yacht, because I've seen it; it's like a liner, and I don't see any reason why we shouldn't oblige him by eating his dinner. But, of course, no unattached woman will go unless all the others go, too."

"Of course not," Mr. Sutherland concurred very calmly, though he was somewhat disturbed and overcast by the young woman's extraordinary directness of approach. He comprehended, however, that the strike had altered everything.

He definitely and immediately liked her. She was downright, humorous, and attractive, if not strikingly beautiful. She was young, but not too young. She was not over-jeweled. The shingling of her hair fascinated him, and her tone flattered him. He found pleasure in her nearness to him. She was the finest creature in the lounge. "I might sit next to her at the dinner," he thought adventurously. He was the very pattern of propriety. He had a wife, and grown-up daughters; but that moment he suddenly grew younger than his wife, younger, even, than his daughters; and his one regret was that he had to catch the midnight train. The cynic says that all women are alike; it would be still more true to say that all men are alike, and that no man is old until he is dead.

"Then you agree?" said she.

Septimius answered with due gravity.

"I agree. I think we might quite properly accept the count's invitation. After all he is very generous."

"He may be an adventurer," said the young woman.

"Quite."

Count Veruda returned to Mr. Sutherland.

"Well, Mr. Sutherland?"

"I am with you, count," said Septimius gayly, in a loud voice that all might hear.

"Hurrah!" exclaimed the dark young woman under her breath.

The whole company signified approval, and the affair was decided. Mr. Sutherland's reputation in the hotel for keeping himself to himself, together with his unmistakable air of prudent respectability, had carried the waverers.

The Yacht.

The large, oval dining saloon of the yacht Vanguard, with a pale, stained glass ceiling faintly lighted from above. The pale, curved wall, diversified in the Della Robbia style. The huge, oval table, glittering white, with crested earthenware and crystal and many flowers. Stewards in blue and gold, with white gloves, circling watchfully round and round with food for the famished and the dyspeptic. The chief steward, behind Count Veruda's chair, attentive, directive, imperative, monosyllabic; exercising dominion by glance and gesture. Between the ring of stewards and the edge of the table—the guests!

Now, as regards the guests, it would seem that the yacht's dining room must have become a mortuary and a "lunatic asylum"; for many of them reiterated that they were tickled to death at being aboard the yacht, and the rest reiterated that they were crazy about being aboard the yacht. The truth rather was that they were crushed, morally, by the magnificence of the spectacle and the entertainment offered to them by Count Veruda. In vain did the more hegen ones try to pretend by an offhand demeanor that they had been familiar with such scenes from their youth up and were therefore quite unmoved; they failed every minute to maintain the pose.

And if suspicions had existed in the minds of some of them concerning Count, those suspicions were now in a fair way to be destroyed.

The process of crushing had begun as soon as the invited horde crossed the street from the hotel portals to the landing steps. Two great mahogany launches were awaiting them at the steps, each manned by a blue-and-gold crew of four. There was plenty of room for everybody in the capacious bosoms of the launches. If those commodious craft were only the attendant launches, what must the yacht be? Persons whose notion of a yacht and yachting was a frail, wobbling bark, with a tin of sardines, a cottage loaf and tea out of a tin mug, were obliged at once, and radically, to revise that notion. The launches shot off like torpedoes, tandem, into the dazy, mysterious, balmy bay. Up the invisible flank of Vesuvius ran a rope of fire—the electric lamps of the funicular railway. The shore-lights of Naples gradually spread out into two semicircles behind the foamy wash of the launches, and above these tiaras rose the lighted hills of the background of the city. A Neapolitan moon had poised itself aloft in the deep purple sky. Then the whiteness of the yacht Vanguard grew plainer, and larger and still larger! Commands! A shutting-off of engines! To the high side of the yacht clung an illuminated stair of mahogany, teak and shining brass—broken midway by a flat space for the recuperation of the short-winded. At the top of the stair stood officers, who with dignified respect raised their caps in grave welcome to the exalted guests. And lo! the guests were fairly on board the main deck, which was lighted like Broadway or Piccadilly Circus. No hitch! No hesitations! No delay! A set of gongs played a tune, and in three minutes or less the guests were at the table.

Of course the Mauretania or the Majestic was bigger; but for real style, from table appointments to stewards, the Vanguard had every trans-Atlantic liner well beaten; so much was admitted unanimously and handsomely by all Americans well experienced in marine travel.

Fanny sings many of the favorite songs—seven to be exact—and she gives the uproarious "Mrs. Cohn at the Beach" for good measure.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a school girl and have many opportunities to go places with boys. I would appreciate it very much if you would please answer this question for me.

When an usher in a theater asks, "How far front?" who should answer, the boy or the girl?

2. When in a restaurant who should give the order to the waiter, the girl or the boy?

3. About how many times a week should a girl see the same fellow? (Entertain him at her home.)

ELGINA.

1. The boy consults the girl as to her wishes, and then advises the usher.

2. The young man gives the order to the waiter, after consulting the lady's wishes.

3. As you are a school girl, the calls should be limited to such evenings as you do not have classes the following day. If your parents allow you to have callers, they should leave at a fairly early hour in order that you may have time for your studies, and be able to get to school in time the following day. Frankly, though, I feel that a school girl should not be allowed too much liberty in the way of callers. Friday and Saturday evenings should be sufficient, for then you have no classes the following days.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The copper stocks head the center of the stage in a moderate advance of prices this morning. Higher earnings for 1929 on 1-cent copper, with a fair prospect of the red metal going to 19 cents a pound by the middle of the year, furnished the principal driving power behind the copper shares. Anaconda as usual leading the list, with a new advance to 129. There was a good accumulation of over-night buying orders as the result of which several 10,000-share blocks passed through the market at the opening. Prices were mostly higher, though there was an "air pocket" into which a few of the favorites fell for a point or two because of the lack of buying demand at prices near Monday's close. After the brisk opening the market slowed down somewhat and speculative interest centered around a few of the speculative favorites. The money rate in the call loan market was 6 per cent, but it was possible to borrow at 5 per cent in

LITTLE CHATS ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A DANGER FROM RECHARGING BATTERIES.

Those familiar with recharging batteries know that one newly charged may have an extremely high temperature. At such times hydrogen gas is given off and there is danger of it being ignited if it comes in contact with a spark, a lighted cigarette or an open flame.

Any one who happens to be working over a battery at such a time is in danger of serious injury and in many cases permanent injury to the sight has resulted because first aid necessities were not at hand.

Every place in which such work is done should keep on hand a bottle of solution of bicarbonate of soda, and if such an accident occurs wash the eyes thoroughly with the solution. Then fill the eye with sterile borated petroleum and go to the nearest physician immediately. These articles cost but a trifling amount and may be the means of saving someone's sight.

We are always prepared to supply first aid articles and to fill your physician's prescriptions with drugs of exact standards of strength and purity.

Business and trade reports were mostly favorable, though price cutting in gasoline and refined oils was reported in some sections of the country, mostly in the eastern consuming centers.

Rudyard Kipling Is Forgotten by People of England

LONDON—Rudyard Kipling is unknown in England today," says Mr. Corbett Smith, one of the founders of the Kipling Society.

And the reason? "Because," says Mr. Smith, "the prices of Kipling's works is prohibitive to the scanty wage earner, and because Kipling will not, under circumstances, allow his works to be radio-broadcast, nor will he allow gramophone records to be made."

"If you go among seven-eighths of the 'real folk' of England, adds the critic, the average man or woman will know nothing about Kipling's work or his message. 'If' will be fairly known by the young folk; 'Man-delay" by those a little older, with echoes of "The Absent-minded Beggar."
